

SHOWS HOW CLOSE AMERICAS TO WAR

Former President Taft Cites Dangers to U. S. Before Georgetown Graduates.

REMOVE TEMPTATION FROM POWERS, HE URGES

Difficulties in Maintaining Neutrality Held Reasons for Better Army and Navy.

Laying emphasis on "how close we are to war" in a survey of the foreign relations of the United States, former President Taft made definite suggestions as to how the United States should be prepared to meet this gravely prospective menace in an address to the graduating class of Georgetown University. Mr. Taft was introduced by President Donnelly with the suggestion that he should come day after day to the Supreme Court.

The scene on the Georgetown campus was a vivid one. More than 5,000 persons were seated at the outdoor commencement exercises, and the applause that greeted Mr. Taft's unexpectedly emphatic and striking sentences was loud and prolonged.

Academic Procession.
The commencement program was preceded by an academic procession of several thousand Georgetown professors, alumni and graduates, with other dignitaries. It was led by Rev. A. J. Donnelly, S. J., president of the college, escorted by Chief Justice Edward D. White. Among those on the platform were Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court; Henry S. Butler, former minister to Switzerland; Dr. W. B. Baker, Hugh J. Rogers, George H. O'Connor, E. J. Murphy, William E. Hughes, Hannibal Taylor, United States Commissioner Anson S. Taylor, James S. McDonough, candidate for senator from New York; Dr. W. O'Donoghue, Dean Kober of the medical school; Harry Hickey, the minister from Haiti; Dr. Baker of the medical school; Benjamin F. Tracy, Dr. Charles Stone, Dr. F. Ryan Devereaux, the Rev. Frank Schellinger, Dr. G. T. Vaughan, the Rev. John D. Whitney and John B. Madigan.

Defines Aims of Peace League.

As president of the League to Enforce Peace Mr. Taft defined the aims of that league and advocated that the participation of the United States in such a league of nations was the only safe course in the present days of danger.

He pointed to the difficulties of maintaining neutrality in the present war as a strong argument for proper and adequate armaments.

"Coming to the present prospect of war," he said, "let us regard our position as neutral. We have tried to be neutral, but our rights as neutrals have been violated by Germany in subjecting our citizens, traveling as they have the right to travel on non-combatant vessels, to drowning without notice. England has enforced against us a blockade as to the blockade. These two issues show how close we are to war, as compared to the situation that would have existed in Washington's day, which prompted his famous warning against 'entangling alliances'."

Would Remove Temptation.

"We have a good many interests around the world which others would like to direct. This war hasn't shown any persistent altruism, and it seems to me that our Christian duty is to remove temptation of despoilation by other nations by making those interests difficult to seize."

Mr. Taft declared the colonial possessions of the United States must be neutral, but our rights as neutrals have been violated by Germany in subjecting our citizens, traveling as they have the right to travel on non-combatant vessels, to drowning without notice. England has enforced against us a blockade as to the blockade. These two issues show how close we are to war, as compared to the situation that would have existed in Washington's day, which prompted his famous warning against 'entangling alliances'."

Alaska Base for Attack.
"Alaska," he said, "offers a base of attack against the United States, as it is undefended. We own the Philippines—that is, up to date—and as long as we hold them it makes us an Asiatic power. I am not going to say anything about the policy we ought to pursue there, but with Dickens' character, Silas Wegg, 'I cannot express my views before the ladies present.'"

His view of the relations of the United States to the world is a power, he declared, in the opinion of the world, in the West Indies, South America, Asiatic waters and in the Atlantic.

Criticizes W. J. Bryan.
Mr. Taft criticized William J. Bryan for praising the Monroe doctrine while opposing military and naval increases. "Mr. Bryan should know that the time may come when the only thing that can defend the Monroe doctrine is force."

The Mexican situation was described by Taft as an "international nuisance." In case of war with that nation he declared he had been informed by the President, by his chief of staff, that the United States would require to let four years and 250,000 men. Then he said:

"After we have subdued it, it may be necessary to take it. What are we going to do with it? It's all wrong!"
